christian schöningh, architekt

Christian Schöningh is freelance architect in Berlin.

As early as the 1990s, he initiated and designed projects that turned out to be „baugruppen“ after the term became used for it. He liked to change roles after phase 0 and preliminary draft and acted as the client, for example in the cooperative housing construction Spreefeld Berlin or for ExRotaprint (until 2013), the student village of Schlachtensee and currently as a board member of the ZKB - Cooperative for Urban Development at the „Haus der Statistik“ and the TRNSFRM eG for two projects of buildings for experimental housing.

He is currently into the board of two cooperatives who are among the common-oriented real estate actors: the umbrella cooperative TRNSFRM eG, who realizes two "experimental housing buildings“, funded by this specific public program, and ZKB eG - Cooperative for Urban Development, who is developing the district „Haus der Statistik“ on Alexanderplatz in Berlin in cooperation with 4 public-law partners.

As a managing partner at the Zusammenarbeiter - Gesellschaft von Architekten mbH, he is increasingly active again as an architect in object planning, currently the CRCLR house, building class 5, made of almost exclusively wood, clay and straw.
